Plural Investment Agreements

		date of signature	date of effect
1	Energy Charter Treaty	June 1995	October 2002
2	China-Japan-Korea	May 2012

General Features of Japan's IIAs

- The number of Japan's IIAs is still small, although Japan has accelerated the negotiations since the policy shifts in 2002.
- Japan's IIAs seek to improve the high-level business environment for overseas Japanese investors.
- Many recent IIAs establish institutional arrangements for the improvement of the business environment.

ECT in Japan's IIAs Policy

- Only Plurilateral IIA covers Eurasian and Euro-Mediterranean regions(47 States and EU)
- Japan concluded BITs with only Mongol, Turkey and Uzbekistan, and an EPA with Switzerland.
- Negotiations for Japan-EU EPA has just begun this April.

Recent Practice of Japan's IIAs Policy

2012 Trilateral Investment Agreement between China, Japan and Korea

- The first binding legal framework between China, Japan and Korea in the field of trade and investment
- Political significance from the perspective of enhancing their relationships.
- Step forward to Trilateral FTA and further economic partnerships.

Bilateral IIAs among China, Japan and Korea

- 1988 Japan and China
- 1992 China and ROK (revised in 2007)
- 2002 Japan and ROK

- ISDS (Art. 15)
- Transfers (Art. 13)
- Fair and Equitable (Art. 5)
- National Treatment (Art. 3)

Basic Policy on Comprehensive Economic Partnership(2010)

Background

- Despite a rapid increase of EPA/FTAs, Japan is falling behind.
- It is necessary to deepen economic relationships with Asian and emerging countries, and with Western and Resource-rich countries.
- Among those, the Asia-Pacific region is of particular importance for Japan, politically, economically and with respect to security.
- The Free Trade Area of the Asia-Pacific(FTAAP) is an important means to a seamless business environment.

Basic Policy on Comprehensive Economic Partnership(2010)

Concrete Action Plan

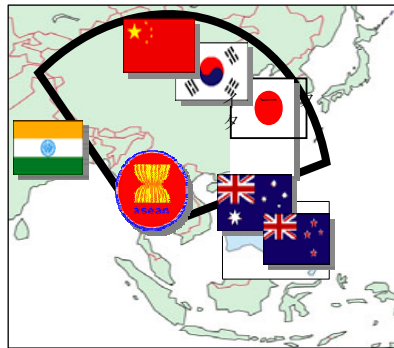

- Japan will work towards the realization of bilateral and regional economic partnerships in the Asia-Pacific region such as :

Japan-Korea FTA, Japan-China-Korea FTA, East Asian Free Trade Agreement(EAFTA) and Comprehensive Economic Partnership in East Asia (CEPA)

- Beyond the Asia-Pacific region, Japan will make efforts to arrange for future negotiations with the EU and facilitate ongoing negotiations with the GCC.

Institutionalizing Economic Cooperation in the Asia-Pacific region

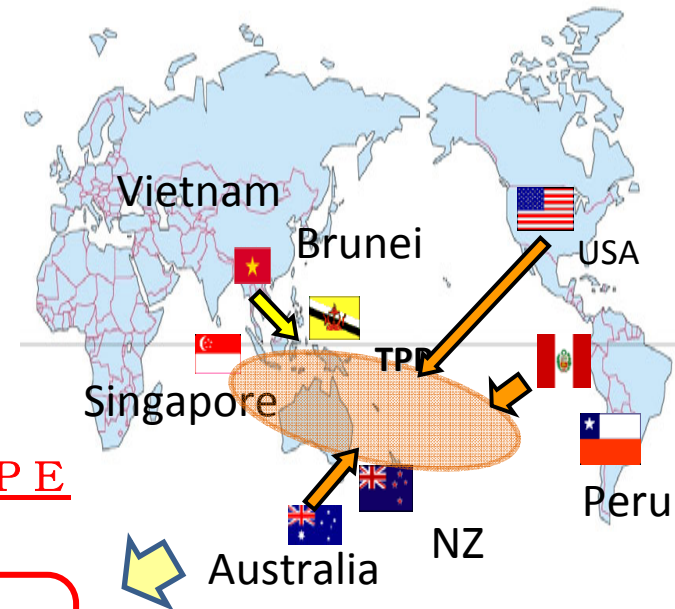

ASEAN+3 (EAP TA)

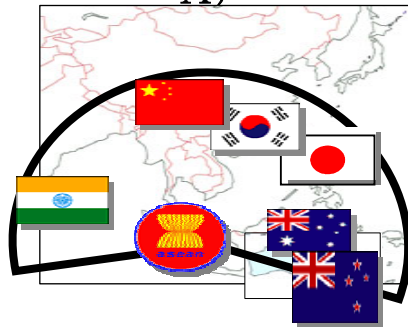

Japan, China, Korea

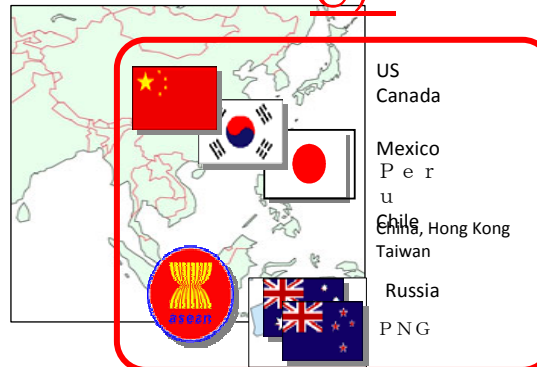

TPP

ASEAN+6 (CEPE A)

FTAAP (APEC C)

The Strategy for Rebirth of Japan(2012)

- To actualize the FTAAP, Japan will push ahead with negotiations with South Korea and Australia, and aims to promptly start negotiations on Japan-China-South Korea, ASEAN+3, and ASEAN+6 regional economic partnerships.
- Regarding the TPP, the government will proceed with consultations with nations interested in participating in the negotiations.
- It will also aim for an early launch of negotiations on Japan-EU EPA.

Japan's Interests in TPP

- Protection of Intellectual Property Rights at the level of ACTA.
- Liberalization of Investment, especially in ASEAN countries.
- Market access to telecom and financial services, especially in ASEAN countries.
- No lowering of labour and environmental standards.
- Setting up a permanent consultative body to improve the business environment.

Challenges in implementing Japan's IIAs Policy

- Japan aims to improve the business environment for overseas Japanese investors by increasing the number of IIAs and EPAs.
- Response to TPP in Japan shows an increasing tendency of polarization of positive and negative perspectives on further economic integration.
- In order to actualize FTAAP, outreach and political leadership is essential in diplomatic negotiations as well as domestic reforms.
